Subject: MIAMI POLICE GOES PINK!

The Miami Police Department has “gone pink” this month to help raise breast cancer awareness.

October has been designated “National Breast Cancer Awareness Month”, and during the past several years, various organizations, including the American Cancer Society and the Susan G. Komen Foundation for the Cure, have led a public awareness campaign. The color pink is being used to symbolize breast cancer awareness.

Chief Manuel Orosa wants a message to stand out, “It’s our 2nd year of participating so throughout the month, real officers will be wearing pink!

Miami Police personnel will be sporting their pink badges throughout the entire month and individually purchased them in order to show the support that comes from within.

Hopefully, this will go on year after year until a cure is found.
